Everybody out of the rut...the '64 Buicks are here!

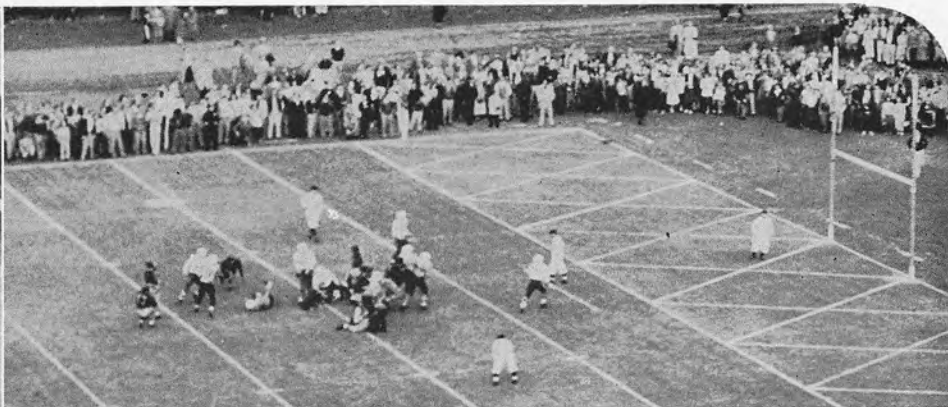

Our happiest problem for '64 was: how to beat a winner? According to thousands of owners, the 1963 models just about had it made in all departments. But—when your name is Buick—you just don't rest on your laurels. You keep pushing to make a great car greater. So . . . the '64 Buicks are new—but new. New engines, V-6 or V-8 (you'll like their new gas economy), new, smoother, extra-cost option, Super Turbine Transmissions (and who, but Buick, would build in an altitude compensator?). Youngest looking Fisher Bodies in town! Visit a showroom, sit in any one of the new Buicks, and practice this short easy line: "My Buick." Sounds good, doesn't it?

Smashing through the line is really not Jim Lange's forte, but helping you avoid lines of traffic is where Jim really shines. Next time you're heading home, let Jim run interference. His music-commute combination is an unbeatable play. Jim calls the signals from 4 to 7 every day. And, of course, he's a four-letter man... KSFO, you know, the world's greatest radio station. You needn't consult your program for other players... you already know Carney, Collins, Courtney, Niles, Kennedy — don't you?

ABOUT THE COVER: Artist Eldridge King illustrates the varied talents of the pro football lineman on our cover. Heavy enough to survive the initial contact on the line, agile enough to catch a quarterback some 50 pounds lighter when seconds make the difference.

49er PROFILE

Bob St. Clair

Robert Bruce St. Clair, the 11-year veteran of the San Francisco Forty Niner offensive line, boasts a long line of accomplishments on and off the football field.

One of the fine offensive tackles of the National Football League, the 32-year old St. Clair has three times earned all-NFL honors. In addition, Bob has appeared in five Pro Bowl contests and has been consistently ranked with the best linemen in the league.

A civic leader, St. Clair has been active in community affairs and politics for a number of years. Since 1958, Bob has been a member of the Daly City City Council and has served a term as Mayor of the city. One of St. Clair's fellow councilmen is Joe Verducci, the former University of California football star and head football coach at St. Mary's College and San Francisco State.

St. Clair's interest in community affairs is an understandable one, for Bob and his wife Ann are the parents of five children. Bob's civic efforts have been directed at making his city a better place to live. Bob is particularly proud of his efforts to beautify his city. At his urging, the city adopted a plan to plant palm trees on Daly City's main street. Even more important, however, St. Clair has been active in increasing the number of parks in Daly City, not to mention programs aimed at improving the general economy of the city.

FORTY NINER VETERAN—San Francisco Bob St. Clair is a veteran of 11 pro seasons.

the football field. As a Forty Niner he has earned the respect of foe and teammate alike. He takes pride in a job well done, and press clippings aren't important in Bob's eye. "There's a personal pride on that line," says St. Clair, "man against man, a demand for respect from the other man and his demand for your respect. I take more satisfaction from congratulations across that line when a fellow says, 'Bob you played a helluva game today,' than if 60,000 applaud or if I see my name in headlines."

Bob's football career began at San Francisco's Polytechnic High School. An all-city tackle, St. Clair earned an athletic scholarship to the University of San Francisco where he played on the Dons' great 1951 undefeated, untied squad which produced such performers as Ollie Matson, Gino Marchetti and Ed Brown. When USF dropped football after the '51 season, Bob transferred to Tulsa University where he played his final season of collegiate football.

A devastating blocker and a fine tackler, Bob was fast enough to play end in college. However, when he reported to the Forty Niner camp in 1953, St. Clair was assigned to an offensive tackle role, a position he had not played since high school, and he has been there ever since. Only a shoulder separation in 1957 and an Achilles tendon injury in 1962 have kept Bob sidelined.

FORTY NINER AT WORK—St. Clair is a councilman and former mayor of Daly City.

The 1964 Jaguar XK-E is unlike any other car on the road today.

For one thing, it doesn't look like any other car you have ever seen. And it is capable of phenomenal speed and acceleration.

Yet its handling qualities give you the relaxed confidence of being in complete command, whatever the road, speed or driving conditions.

What's more, the 32 unique performance and luxury features of the XK-E are on each car when you buy it. With many other sports cars, they are added "extras."

A few of these features: the race-proven engine; "Monocoque" body; all-around independent suspension; four-wheel disc brakes; bucket seats covered with genuine leather; completely instrumented dash panel.

SCOUT REPORT

Dallas Cowboys

Notes from Tom Landry, the Cowboys' head coach:

The Cowboys are maturing . . . Success may be in the future, but I feel we now have the nucleus to build a strong team that will be able to make a bid for leadership in the Eastern Conference.

Our primary goal this season has been defensive improvement. Last year we developed an offense that ranked with the best. When our defense can approach our offensive excellence, we'll be a balanced team.

Our 1962 defense was hampered by inexperience—five or six rookies started every game—and that should be partially corrected this year since the young players have a year's development. In addition, we have added some outstanding newcomers in Lee Roy Jordan and Harold Hays.

We feel our running game is very strong with Amos Marsh running stronger than ever and All-Pro halfback Don Perkins fully recovered from off-season surgery.

Norman, our most improved second-year man, along with such established receivers as Billy Howton, Frank Clarke and Lee Folkins, will give our quarterbacks excellent targets.

Looking over the quarterback position, one finds solid depth that permits variety in our attack. Eddie LeBaron, now in his eleventh season, and Don Meredith, beginning his fourth, provide the seasoned leadership so important to any team. Rookie Sonny Gibbs has displayed a lot of passing ability, but as is normally true in most cases, is spending more time learning than playing in this first year.

When we have the ball you can expect to see us shift as in past years, but this year we have added something new —the I formation. Our basic shift will come off the I, but we have also experimented with running some offense directly out of that system.

The team aspect of football in the National League is never so evident as when you hear top players talking about their teammates . . . For instance, Dallas Cowboys' fullback Amos Marsh has this to say about Don Perkins, the Cowboys' All-Pro halfback: "Perkins helps you. You don't get as many carries (as you might playing with a lesser back), but with the threat he poses back there alongside you, you get more yards when you do carry the ball."

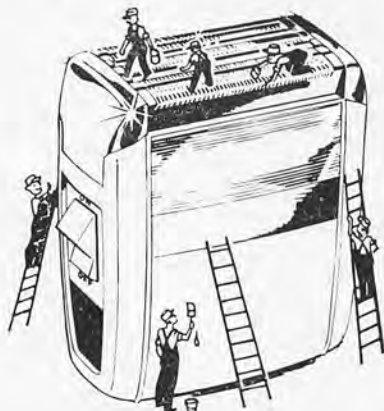

Cowboy offensive tackle Bob Fry, who is in his ninth season in the NFL, has been a regular starter throughout his entire career. Fry played five seasons with the Los Angeles Rams and is beginning his fourth as a Cowboy.

Youngsters Compete

In Pass, Punt and Kick

Competition Today

Today is "Punt, Pass, and Kick" Day!

Prior to the opening kickoff today, the spotlight of attention will focus on four boys, aged 8, 9, 10, and 11, who will be representing the San Francisco 49ers in the national "Punt, Pass, and Kick" competition.

Each of the four will give a demonstration of his punting, passing, and place-kicking ability. Their scores will be compared with those of other regional winners from the 14 NFL cities to determine eight national finalists who will win a trip to the White House and the NFL championship game in late December.

Now in its third year, "Punt, Pass, and Kick" is co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America.

Today's regional competition will be supervised and conducted by the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department, which also conducted the local PP&K contests on city playgrounds last month.

"Punt, Pass, and Kick" is a competition that pits the punting, passing, and place-kicking skills of boys, aged 8, 9, 10, and 11, against all other participants of the same age throughout the country. Winners are named and prizes awarded on the local, state, regional, and national levels.

In PP&K contests each boy, punts, passes, and place-kicks a football for distance and accuracy. Scoring is computed on the basis of one point for each foot the ball travels in the air, minus one point for each foot the ball lands to the right or left of a center line.

The first phase of the program consists of local contests held throughout the country under sponsorship of Ford dealers. The top three winners in each of the four age brackets receive prizes in each local contest. First prize is a warmup jacket; second prize is a football helmet; and third prize is an autographed football.

State winners are declared on the basis of local scores and trophies are awarded to the winners.

From the scores of local winners in each NFL team television area, four regional champions also are named. These are the boys with the highest scores in each of the four age brackets. Each regional champion is awarded a junior NFL football uniform and the right to compete for national honors.

From the regional competitions, will emerge eight national finalists—one in each age group from both the Eastern and Western divisions of the NFL. The Eastern and Western finalists will then go on a Tour of Champions to Washington, D.C., and will compete against each other for the national PP&K titles at the NFL Championship game, December 29.

"Punt, Pass, and Kick" has the endorsement of President Kennedy. In a letter commending the co-sponsors, the President stated that "programs of this type will enable our youth to build the energy and strength that are their American heritage."

Coach Tom Landry

The DALLAS COWBOYS

By TEX MAULE

In late January of 1960, in the plush Kenilworth Hotel on the beach in Miami, the National Football League owners, in long and bitter conclave, finally reached two momentous decisions, one of which grew out of the other.

They argued for a week about a successor to Bert Bell as commissioner of the league. One faction wanted to retain Austin Gursel, the league treasurer, who had served as pro tem commissioner after Bell's death. The other group, whom you might call the young lions, were adamant in the support of Marshall Leahy, a San Francisco attorney whose sympathies, supposedly, might lie with the younger clubs in the league.

A third party watched the week-long struggle carefully, did not vote one way or the other and nursed his own project, which had nothing to do with the election of a commissioner.

His forbearance was reported when the warring factions, weary of butting heads, finally made a fortuitous compromise. They discarded both Gursel and Leahy and settled on young (38) Pete Rozelle, who was general manager of the Los Angeles Rams and had vast experience in dealing with recalcitrant owners. Rozelle was elected on the first ballot after his name appeared. There had been twenty-three ballots during the week of argument.

Now Halas made his move. He got Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul admitted as new members, Dallas to begin operation in 1960 and Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1961.

The putative owners of the Dallas franchise had spent the long week of argument waiting to learn their fate. They had wandered restlessly from lobby to bar to pool to beach and back again. Texas E. Schramm, already hired as general manager, and a high-strung, restless man, lost five pounds during the week.

The American Football League, which was preparing for its first season, and which had both its headquarters and a team in Dallas, reacted with something less than enthusiasm to the news that the NFL had granted owners Clint Murchison, Jr., and Bedford Wynne a competitive franchise in Dallas.

Said AFL Commissioner Joe Foss, an ex-governor of South Dakota: "This is an act of war. We will go to the court or to Congress to prevent the NFL from putting the AFL franchise in Dallas out of business. You have antitrust laws to take care of such situations."

"They moved into our territory in New York and Los Angeles and San Francisco," answered Rozelle, in one of his first public statements as NFL commissioner. "Why shouldn't we be allowed to move into Dallas?"

Lamar Hunt, owner of the rival Dallas Texans and founder of the AFL, had

LEON DONAHUE

Offensive Guard

One of the promising young men on the Forty-Niner squad, Donahue has a starting assignment in his second year of pro ball . . . quickness, agility and strength are Leon's assets for the rugged offensive guard post . . . good size at 6-4, 245 pounds . . . developed fast in rookie year and saw extensive action in last half of season . . . ninth round draft choice from San Jose State . . . named the Spartans' outstanding lineman in '61 . . . also team captain under former 49er Bob Titchenal.

KAY MCFARLAND

Halfback-End

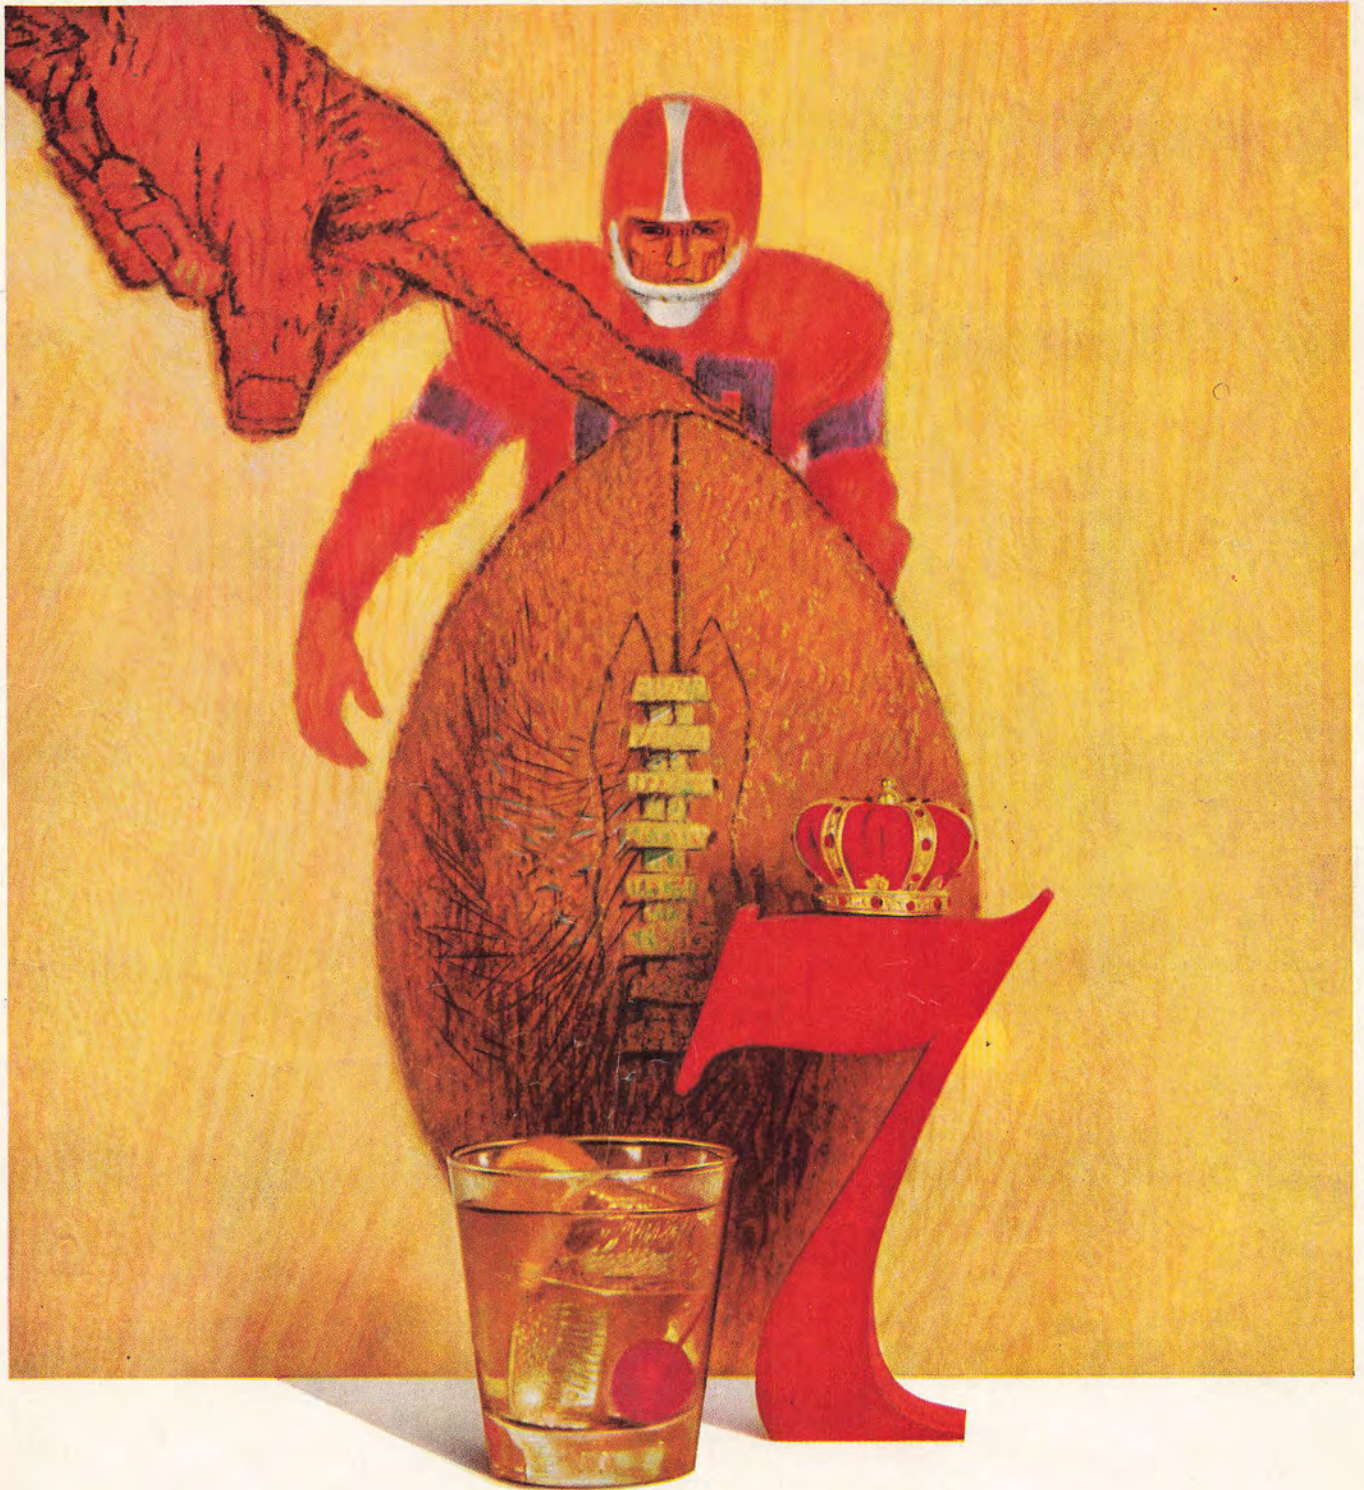

A "sleeper" draft choice in 1960, McFarland is now a second-year Forty Niner . . . Kay was drafted by the 49ers in the 18th round before he ever played in a collegiate game on the recommendation of a 49er scout who watched him in high school . . . played first college ball in Senior year and was Colorado State's leading receiver with 18 catches for 206 yards . . . named CSU's outstanding Senior athlete . . . played three years of basketball at Colorado State . . . caught three passes for 24 yards in '62.

KARL RUBKE

Center

Rubke returned to San Francisco in '62 after one season with the newly formed Minnesota Vikings . . . a seven-year NFL veteran, the 239-pounder has earned the starting center position for the 49ers . . . also can perform at linebacker, a position he played from 1957 to 1960 for the 49ers . . . native Californian . . . all-State at Mt. Carmel High School . . . star performer at the University of California.

Play it sure, make it 7

You know a drink will taste right when it's made with 7 Crown, the whiskey that's so good all by itself. Tall drink or short, plain drink or fancy, 7 Crown makes it smooth and memorable as nothing else can. No wonder 7 Crown has so many more fans than any other whiskey ever had.

DALLAS COWBOYS

GEORGE ANDRIE

Defensive End

A strong, rugged performer, Andrie won starting job and All Rookie Team selection in '62 . . . missed playing final collegiate season in '61 when Marquette dropped football . . . drafted sixth by Cowboys in '61 . . . a dedicated player, he proved exceptionally promising at pass rush with excellent desire to learn.

DON PERKINS

Offensive Halfback

Spark of Cowboys' ground attack, Perkins was sixth-ranked rusher in NFL in '61 and fifth-ranked last season . . . tremendous balance and explosiveness, plus competitive drive, have made him a Pro Bowl selection both seasons and All Pro in '62 . . . gained exactly one mile rushing in first two seasons . . . missed first crack at rookie season in '60 when chronic foot ailment was aggravated in College All-Star workouts.

LEE ROY JORDAN

Linebacker

The Cowboys first real "first round" draft selection, Lee Roy was a consensus All-America in 1962, when he was honored as the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman . . . his play in the '63 Orange Bowl game substantiated Coach Bear Bryant's claim that "he's the best linebacker I've ever coached" . . . great pursuit, play diagnostic ability and desire make him a prime candidate for greatness though he's somewhat small.

EDDIE LeBARON

Quarterback

Getting better every year, LeBaron led NFL passers in '62 until hobbled with calf injury . . . ten-year NFL totals show 12,078 yards gained on 864 completions in 1,731 attempts for an even 100 touchdowns . . . threw five TD passes in 42-27 victory over Pittsburgh . . . spent first seven NFL seasons with Washington Redskins, securing law degree from George Washington University . . . UOP grad.

DALLAS COWBOYS

DON MEREDITH

Quarterback

Meredith enjoyed his best season in '62, despite early-season slowdown due to hand injury . . . as two-time All-America at SMU, set a three-year NCAA accuracy record of 61 per cent and was named UPI back of the week four times in 1958, only player to rate that distinction . . . an all-state football and basketball player in high school at Mount Vernon, Texas, he now makes Dallas his home.

JIM RAY SMITH

Guard

Came to Cowboys in trade for Monte Clark . . . end and tackle in college, he was drafted seventh in 1954 while he still had one year of eligibility . . . served nearly two years in Army, joining Browns in mid-season of 1956 . . . has since become top guard in Browns' history, chosen on all-time Brown All-Star team . . . All-Pro in '61 and '62 and has been selected to play in last five Pro Bowl games.

LEE FOLKINS

Offensive End

Folkins won starting tight end job early in '62 after reporting to Cowboys from Green Bay week before regular season . . . ability to make a tough catch in a crowd marks him a potential standout . . . gained first repete in 1962 College All-Star game by swinging at a collegian and knocking out the head linesman.

ROBERT LILLY

Defensive End

Cowboys' top choice in their first draft, Lilly was named to NFL All-Rookie team in '61 and to Pro Bowl squad last season . . . consensus All-America tackle at TCU in '60, was called by Coach Abe Martin the best tackle he's ever coached . . . exceptionally strong and agile, he teams with George Andrie to give Cowboys finest young defensive ends in league.

NFL NOTES

ONLY TWO YEARS AGO, Don Hutson, the great Green Bay Packers end, held four major lifetime records in the National Football League—most points scored, most yards gained catching passes, most passes caught and most touchdowns scored . . . First, both Bobby Walston of Philadelphia, then Lou Groza of Cleveland took over the lifetime scoring . . . Then, earlier this season, Billy Howton of the Dallas Cowboys surpassed the mark for lifetime yardage by receiving . . . And, on Oct. 27, Howton has his finest day since joining Dallas in 1960 . . . Billy caught seven passes against Pittsburgh for 103 yards and ran his career reception total to 490 (Hutson had 488) . . . The one big record Hutson has left is 105 touchdowns, but that, too, is in danger and will most likely be topped early in 1964 by Jim Brown . . . The Cleveland fullback now has 93 TDs, including 12 this season.

NEW YORK COACH Allie Sherman's capsule description of the Giants' short-yardage game plan that knocked off previously unbeaten Cleveland: "We decided to just chunk it out, just chunk it." . . . Giant linebacker Sam Huff said, "It was particularly gratifying to us to win with ball control. That's the way the Browns beat us (35-24) two weeks ago."

TOMMY DAVIS, the place-kicking specialist of the 49ers came within an inch of a National Football League distance record for field goals . . . Tommy attempted one from his own 42-yard line, but it hit the left upright above the crossbar . . . The record is 56 yards by Bert Rechichar of Baltimore against Chicago in 1953 . . . Davis' two extra points in the 49ers' 20-14 win over the Bears ran his consecutive conversion string to 140, only 16 shy of the NFL record 156 set by George Blanda of the Bears between 1949 and 1956. Tommy now stands at 144 consecutive PATs.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in his 13-year career Jim Martin kicked four field goals in one game, and he did it last Oct. 27 against his old team, Detroit, as the Baltimore Colts won 25-21 . . . Martin kicked for the Lions from 1953 through 1961, retired for a year, then was traded to Baltimore just before the start of this season . . . Martin holds no gripe against the Lions for the deal after he had a difficult time in training . . . "I'm glad I helped beat the Lions," he said, "but don't say I hate Detroit. I had my chance this year with the Lions, but I hurt my leg and I was pressing too hard."

an answer for that.

"It's not the same at all," he said. "In our case it's just like a little dog going into the big back yard of a big dog. But in their case it's the big dog going into the little back yard and asking the little bitty dog if there's not room for him. It's the size of the back yard that counts."

Hunt and the owners of the Cowboys then proceeded to put on a whale of a dog fight over possession of a back yard which seemed, for two years, to be too small for one dog of any size.

The populace of Dallas, in the first year the two teams battled for attendance, regarded the pair with equal boredom. Schramm had been trained in one of the best pro football schools in the country as assistant to Dan Reeves, president of the Los Angeles Rams, but he found that running a last-place club was a far cry from operating a team like the Rams. Nevertheless, he set about building for the future with a dogged, if sometimes almost hopeless, persistence. The Cowboys, coming into the NFL after the completion of the 1960 draft, had no chance to pick players from the crop of 1959 college seniors. The older clubs in the league made some of their players available to them for draft, but these were often has beens or never weres.

Tom Landry, the young brilliant, coach hired from the New York Giants to run the club on the field, found himself equipped with a ragtag, bobtail assortment of players. He decided to do as much as he could to provide Dallas fans with an exciting offense and let defense, the core of a championship team, go by the boards temporarily.

"I figured we were bound to lose," he said. "If we could score a little while we were losing, maybe we could make some friends."

As was expected, the Cowboys finished last in their maiden season and did not win a game. Even Landry, as capable as he proved to be, could not make a silk purse out of his collection of sow's ears.

Schramm had, meanwhile, installed Gil Brandt as talent scout to locate the best of the college seniors, using a system based on the best in the league—that of the Rams. The system began to pay off in 1961, when the Cowboys, for the first time, participated in the annual draft.

Their first draft choice became a steady and more than competent performer. He was Bob Lilly, a giant (6-4, 251 pounds) end from Texas Christian. The scouting system also turned up Amos March, who was not picked by any club. He became a fine fullback for the Cowboys. Another first-line Cowboy running back, Don Perkins, was also located and reported in 1960, but missed all of that season because of a chronic foot ailment.

The Cowboys, fortunately, had two fine quarterbacks—Eddie LeBaron, the tiny veteran obtained from the Washington Redskins, and Don Meredith, who had played at Southern Methodist and who was rated by most scouts as certain to become a star in pro football.

The 1961 season began auspiciously. The Cowboys beat the Pittsburgh Steelers, 27-24, in their first game, then whipped an even newer team, the Minnesota Vikings, 21-7, in their second. They won four games in their second season, one of them against the mighty and long-established New York Giants.

Dallas fans, who had first favored the AFL Texans, seemed to turn toward the Cowboys in 1961.

The losses for both teams were astronomical. The AFL filed suit on antitrust charges against the NFL, using the situation in Dallas as one of the major points in their allegations. The suit was lost on all counts, then appealed, but it had little effect on the battle to the death going on in Dallas.

Landry, by 1962 going into his third year as the head coach of the Cowboys, had improved his team bit by bit. It was a long way from being a contender, but now he could begin to spend some time on his first love, defense. The third season began almost as well as the second.

Amos Marsh as fullback, Don Perkins at half and Frank Clarke, an end picked up from the Cleveland Browns in a trade, had developed rapidly. The defense was beginning to learn the maneuvers carefully and perfectly planned by Landry and the team seemed to grow in confidence through the pre-season games.

Landry tried something new. He had always been a believer in Paul Brown's system of messenger guards, but he felt it could be improved upon. With two fine quarterbacks in Meredith and LeBaron, he decided that instead of shuttling guards in and out of a game to call plays, he would shuttle quarterbacks. The system was an instant success.

"It gives you the opportunity to discuss what happened on the previous play and what to expect on the next with the quarterback," Landry said. "The quarterback standing with you on the sidelines knows what play is being called on the field. If it fails to work, he knows why. Sometimes a quarterback may call a play which fails simply because of a blown assignment or a break-

HEMORRHOIDS
WITHOUT SURGERY

Stops Itch - Relieves Pain

A famous research institute has discovered a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids, to stop itch and relieve pain—without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of injured tissues all while it quickly shrinks hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observation proved this so—even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. In fact, some sufferers were able to make such statements as "Hemorrhoids have ceased to be a problem." All this was accomplished without narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—now offered in both ointment and suppository form called Preparation H®. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to use if away from home). Available at all drug counters.

down in the blocking. If he stays on the field, he may not realize this and he may junk a perfectly good play when it would work, with good blocking. If he's on the sideline with me, he realizes this."

The system also provided invaluable experience for Meredith, who got a good deal of game action without the responsibility for the whole game resting on his shoulders.

"I think I've learned a lot," Meredith said. "Landry's a genius. He knows just what he wants to do and just how he wants to do it. Not many people do."

LeBaron, who is one of the smartest quarterbacks in the league and who is in his thirteenth year at this position, has endorsed the system for another reason.

"It's hard to have a bad day in this system," he said. "Some days, if you're in all by yourself, you get into a bad pattern or things go wrong and it's impossible to start over again. With this system, if you start going off, Landry's there to put you back on the right track."

After the eighth game of the 1962 season, the Cowboys still had an outside chance in the league race. They faced the Giants, the division leaders, in the Cotton Bowl. A victory would leave Dallas only a half-game out of first. The Cowboys had just come home after a convincing victory over the Steelers in Pittsburgh.

"This game tells it," Schramm said before the kickoff. "If we don't do over 30,000, Dallas doesn't want pro football."

The Dallas Texans, leading the Western Division of the AFL, had played natural rivals the week before in the Houston Oilers, the Eastern Division leaders. The crowd had been 29,000 for the most attractive game possible in the AFL.

Over 45,000 turned out for the Cowboys-Giants game. Unfortunately, early in the game, LeBaron injured his Achilles' tendon and was forced to leave. The Giants, intent on locking up the division championship, handed the Cowboys their worst defeat of the season. The Cowboys finished the 1962 respectably, even though LeBaron was out for most of the rest of the games.

LeBaron, associated with club owner Bedford Wynne in Wynne's law office, planned to play again in 1963. The Cowboys picked up one of the best college quarterbacks in the 1962 draft in giant Sonny Gibbs of Texas Christian. The future looked bright.

Smoothest going down!

You'll be glad you said 'Johnnie Walker Red', the world's largest-selling Scotch whisky because it always tastes so incredibly smooth!

When
cigarette means a lot...

get Lots More from L&M

more body in the blend

It's L&M's rich flavor leaf that does it.

more flavor in the smoke

L&M has more of this special rich flavor leaf than even some unfiltered cigarettes.

more taste through the filter

L&M's modern filter—all white inside and out—so only pure white touches your lips.

the filter cigarette for people who really like to smoke.
